ebook fundamentals of corporate finance middle east edition

this new edition examines how development in the middle east is being influenced by global economic change this comparative textbook focuses on the region s strengths and highlights development success especially in the gulf turkey and israel the major structural changes in the economies of the middle east are analysed and current employment challenges are discussed the impact of demographic changes is considered notably the dramatic decline in birth rates which will have implications for future employment the contribution of banks and capital markets to the region s development is appraised including that of islamic financial institutions which play a prominent role in the gulf cooperation council gcc countries but are on the margins of the financial systems elsewhere historically development in the gcc was linked to oil and gas production and prices a key issue being whether these are being decoupled as economies diversify and become more self sustaining the evidence on this from the gcc is encouraging with transparent and accountable financial management and major improvements in economic governance despite the lack of democracy examining the drivers of economic development in the middle east in a regional and global context this fully updated textbook is a key resource for students and academics interested in economic development and the political economy of the middle east the emerging consensus that institutions shape political and economic outcomes has produced few theories of institutional change and no defensible theory of institutional origination kiren aziz chaudhry shows how state and market institutions are created and transformed in saudi arabia and yemen two countries that typify labor and oil exporters in the developing worlds in a world where the international economy dramatically affects domestic developments the question of where institutions come from becomes at once more urgent and more complex in both saudi arabia and yemen fundamental state and market institutions forged during a period of isolation at the end of world war i were destroyed and reshaped not once but three times in response to exogenous shocks comparing boom bust cycles chaudhry exposes the alternating social and organizational origins of institutions arguing that both broad changes in the international economy and specific forms of international integration shape institutional outcomes labor and oil exporters thus experience identical economic cycles but generate radically different state market and financial institutions in response to different resource flows chaudhry supplemented years of field work in saudi arabia and yemen with extensive analysis of previously unavailable materials in the saudi national archives worldwide privatization has expanded rapidly but in the middle east and north africa mena region progress has been markedly slow the two main obstacles to privatization in the mena region are seen to be the high level of overstaffing in public enterprises and the inability of economies to create jobs fast enough this volume is divided into two parts the first addresses key issues of an institutional and political economy nature to explain pressures for and against state owned enterprise soe reform and privatization the second part of the book presents empirical studies of egypt jordan sudan and turkey to illustrate the specific roles played by the state and by interest groups in the pace of soe reform as well as to analyze the negative impact on productivity and financial performance on an inflated public sector the conclusions drawn from these studies are that social protection and effective labor redundancy policies should be addressed prior to privatization and that there is a prerequisite for increased private sector investment in soes to accelerate mena s integration with the world economy via trade related programs and infrastructure the importance of financial inclusion is increasingly recognized by policymakers around the world small and medium sized enterprise sme financial inclusion in particular is at the core of the economic diversification and growth challenges many countries are facing in the middle east and central asia menap and cca regions smes represent an important share of firms but the regions lag most others in terms of sme access to financing this study reviews what the economic literature says about financial development and growth and draws general lessons for macroeconomic and financial policy after assessing financial sector development in the mena region several policy measures are proposed to enhance this sector s performance drawing on recent research by the imf on the mena countries financial sector development is evaluated by constructing an index that encompasses six themes monetary policy banking sector development regulation and supervision nonbank financial sector development financial openness and institutional quality such as the strength of creditor rights using a subset of indicators for which data are readily available for non mena countries the Mena region's performance is analyzed over time relative to a few other regions

The countries of the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) have been recovering from the global financial crisis but the recent political turmoil has interrupted the pace of credit and output recovery in many countries. The political turmoil in the MENA region reveals deep-seated frustrations and a sense of political, social, and economic exclusion, especially among the youth. The relatively weak growth performance reflects a combination of insufficient reforms and weak reform implementation, including financial sector reforms. The structural weaknesses of financial sectors imply that access to finance may remain restricted even with a full recovery of credit activity. Therefore, the region's countries face an ambitious reform agenda to revert two decades of relatively poor performance of output and employment growth. Financial development should be a central component of the region's growth agenda. This study reviews the region's financial systems, the severity of the limitations on access to finance, and the main factors behind such limitations. It goes on to provide a road map for expanding access and preserving financial stability.
